Senator McMillan Approves of Pennsylvania Avenue for Public Buildings.

Structure-Ought to Purchase All of South Side of Avenue.

ate committee on the District of Columbia, is heartily in favor of building up the south side of Pennsylvania avenue with governthe grand thoroughfare should be improved in keeping with the general beauty of the capital, but that the building sites north of the mall are most favorably located for the purposes of the government, both on account of their accessibility and the opportunity they give for a display of splen-did architecture, such as the government should encourage by example.

Mr. McMillan regards a location on the south side of the avenue as eminently available for the purposes of a municipal building for the District of Columbia, but favors the present court house site on Ju-diciary Square, because the government now owns it and would be saved the expense of purchasing another site.

Mr. McMillan expressed his preference for a plan for the acquisition at one time of practically all the ground on the south side of the avenue that the government may want for many years to come, rather than for its purchase from time to time, as it may be wanted.

When his opinion was asked today on the plan which is almost unanimously favored by citizens, that the new municipal vored by citizens, that the new municipal building be constructed on the south side of the avenue, he replied:

of the avenue, he replied:
"For many years I have favored building up the south side of the avenue with public buildings, and have believed the time would come when this will be done. The sites in this neighborhood are conveniently located for the present of the sites. ocated for the transaction of business by members of Congress with public officials and the avenue itself is so eminently fitted as a great thoroughfare for a display as a great thoroughfare for a display of ar-chitecture that the opportunity to use it should not be lost. Of course, I would not favor paying extortionate prices for this land, and if the government buys it, it should be acquired at reasonable prices. As long as this government lives the avenue will be the scene of great national pageants to be witnessed by records from all payes of to be witnessed by people from all parts of the country, and with the extending influence and material expansion of the nation the importance of this avenue will be cor-respondingly increased. In the location of the White House and the Capitol building it is probable that Washington himself fully realized that with the growth of the country the broad thoroughfare connecting these two structures would become an important center of the city.

"I have favored the location of the new municipal building for the District on the present site of the court house, on Judiciary Square, because that building, while pleasing in some respects to cuttered on pleasing in some respects in outward ap-pearance, is far from fit for the purposes for which it has been used. It would cost a great deal of money to remodel it, and even with a large expenditure for that purpose it could not be made really desirable. The building should be replaced, and as that afte already belongs to the government, I would prefer it over another site that would cost a great deal of money. Otherwise, I would regard the south side of the avenue as an entirely available locality for a site for the new municipal building."

In connection with Senator McMillan's remarks, it is interesting to note that the a square of ground on the south side of the avenue, where the building now occupied by the General Post Office Department is located.

This land was acquired some nine years ago by condemnation proceedings. A commission was appointed to ascertain the value of the property, and the result of its valuation, which was approved by the court, showed that the square and the improvements thereon were valued at $250 terms. ments thereon were valued at $650,162, which was an average of $11.11 per square foot for the 58,503 square feet contained in the square. The government paid for this property only what an individual would have been required to pay if he had endeavored to secure the entire square. This is demonstrated by comparison with the price paid for the square purchased about the same time by the Washington and Georgetown street railway, now the Capital Traction Company, where subsequently the cable power house was erected. This is square No. 255, bounded by 13½ and 14th streets and E street or Pennsylvania avenue and D street: It contains 45,910 square is square No. 255, bounded by 155 and 14th streets and E street or Pennsylvania avenue and D street: It contains 45,910 square feet, and the company paid to the owners of the various pieces the sum of $55,511, which is at the rate of $12.10 per square

In the case of Mr. D. COMES TO AID OF FUNK.

George Busey's Story of Occurrence in Washington Circle. In support of the application for a further hearing on the motion for a new trial in the case of Frank W. Funk, convicted of murder, which was filed late yesterday by Attorneys Baker and Wolf, as stated in The Star, is an affidavit of greatest interest. It sets forth that the affiant, George Busey, while in Washington Circle the 5:20 and 5:30 o'clock, saw Funk engaged in earnest conversation with a woman; sav him take something from her, although she resisted; saw them go away together, and then he paid no further attention to the ouple.
With in him in the circle at the time was, man named Tom Lyles, says Busey, and he has no doubt that byles will substantiate his statements. Busey, who is an intelligent colored man, Susey, who is an intelligent colored man, is serving as a juror this month in Circuit Court No. 1 The knowledge that he might prove a witness of value to the defense was made known to Funk's counsel in a rather peculiar way. While at the court house a few days ago some one remarked to Busey:

house a few days ago some one remarked to Busey:

"They're going to send Snell the same way they sent Funk." To this remark Busey replied: "If the jury had known what I know I don't believe they ever would have convicted that man Funk."

The conversation was overheard by an attorney, who informed Messrs. Baker and Wolf. Counsel proceeded to interview the man, who willingly subscribed to an affidavit. According to Busey he told Sergeant Keefe of the affair shortly after the murder, but as he was not summoned to court to testify he let the matter drop, after communicating to a number of his friends communicating to a number of his friend what he had seen and accepting the vice to say nothing further about the mat

The best efforts of the band were, perhaps, the Dvorak number and Gillett's "Rondo de Nuit," a new composition, that was given with spiendid tonal effect and delicate shading. The soloists were Mr. Arthur Pryor, who played an air with florid variations arranged by himself for the trombone, and who is so well known in Washington as a master of his instrument that his work does not need exploitation here: Miss master of his instrument that his work does not need exploitation here: Miss Blanche Duffield, soprano, and Miss Bertha Bucklin, violinist. Miss Duffield sang Pizzi's "Dolce Amor" in such a way as to gain an emphatic encore. Miss Duffield's voice has a pleasing note of sweetness, but it is not quite large enough to stand a full band accompaniment. Miss Bucklin played a collection of Russian airs by Wieniawski, and as an encore a nocturne, that served to display her ability to produce the warm, rich tone, full of sympathy and expression. rich tone, full of sympathy and expression that marks the true artist. DEATH OF SERGT. NOWLAND.

Killed by a Sharpshooter Recently in The announcement of the death in the Philippines of James E. Nowland, ser-

sharpshooter while on scout duty January

Mr. Nowland was one of the first to enlist at the outbreak of the war with Spain, and served with Company C, 1st District of Columbia Regiment, until mustered out. He re-enlisted at Camp Meade in the 27th Volunteer Regiment for duty in the Philippines. His soldiery qualities won him recognition in the form of an appointment as sergeant, and still higher honors would undoubtedly have been bestowed upon him had he not been cut down in the spring of life.

Mr. Nowland is the second member of Company C, 1st District of Columbia Volunteers, who has been killed in the Philippines (Lieutenant Smith of the 1sth United States Infantry being the first), and is the sixth man in all that the company has lost since first organized. list at the outbreak of the war with Spain

HOWELL TITUS CONVICTED.

Jury Holds Him to Be Guilty of False

A jury in Criminal Court No. 2 last night reported a verdict of guilty in the case of Howell Titus, a local attorney-atlaw, who was on trial Wednesday and yes terday under an indictment alleging false pretenses. Attorney J. W. Wheatley, who appeared for the defendant, gave notice of the filing of a motion for a new trial. Titus was permitted to remain at liberty over night under the surety he furnished for his appearance at the trial, with the understanding that he would supply a larger standing that he would supply a larger bond today.

The complaining witness against Titus was Marvin G. Sperry, who was arrested some time ago for the alleged passing of worthless checks. He declared he gave Titus, his counsel, $15 to be paid out in having the charges against Sperry withdrawn. Titus, so it was testified, appropriated the money to his own use. The defendant argued his own case before the jury. In rendering its verdict the jury recommended the defendant to the mercy of the court. court.

"Capt. Graham and I had a very suc cessful trip. We destroyed a lot of contraband of war, including two boats of (beno) native whisky. Five days ago our regiment attacked San Mateo, along with den. Lawton, which, you know, resulted in his death. We had seventeen wounded but killed nearly 500 insurgents. I have been sick for over a week, but am still holding up. Am afraid I shall have to go to the hospital in a few days unless a change occurs soon. I have forty-three sick men in my company alone. It does not seem at all my company alone. It does not seem at all like Christmas eve. Sitting at my desk here, I can look out of the door of the rice mill we are occupying and see the rest of the company swimming in the Rio Granderiver. No snow; no Christmas trees—in fact, no Christmas at all. On one of our hurried marches I lost everything in the way of personal property. We are here now over thirty miles from Manila, and so far the quartermaster's department has failed to send us any clothes; and, as it has rained terribly the last four days, and we have had no change of clothes, you can imagine how we must feel. But it is a can imagine how we must feel. But it is a soldier's life."

Death of William A. Van Deusen. Mr. William A. Van Deusen died of par alysis at his home in Herndon. Va., yester day morning, after being confined to his bed but four days. He was in his eightyseventh year, and was one of the most hon-ored, respected and successful farmers in that vicinity. His wife, five sons and two daughters survive him.

"Seeing is Believing."

When you see people cured by a remedy, you must believe in its power. Look around you. Friends, relatives, neighbors all say that Hood's Sarsaparilla, America's Greatest Medicine, cleansed the blood of their dear ones. There's nothing like it in the world to purify the blood.

Eruptions—"My little daughter's face broke out with pimples, which became as large as a fire-cent piece. Treatment did no good until I began giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla. In a short time after this the scahs fell off. leaving the skin perfectly free from any scar. Her skin is row smooth and white, and she has rever had any skin trouble whatever since her cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. ELLA L. BALDERSTON, 155 High street, Anacostia, D. C.

After Typhoid Fever—"I took Hood's typhoid fever and it did me so much good that I make the time. Whenever I have those tired feelings I find this medicine just the thing to drive them away. As a spring and fall medicine I regard Hood's Sarsaparilla as without a rival, and have recommended it many times to friends and acquaintances." W. H. DEDRICK, 46 I street n.e., Washington, D. C.
